What this looks like in Geography
We want our children to be confident learners and have a positive, persevering mindset. We want them to challenge themselves and persevere when learning new skills. Geography offers opportunity for developing new skills. It gives them an understanding of the world and gives them glimpses of their ability to be a positive force for change.	We live in a rural setting and this may influence the opportunities that the children have to encounter people from differing races and ethnicities. The teaching of geography enables children to encounter people and places that would otherwise not encounter. Investigating the similarities and differences between different peoples and places enables them to appreciate diversity and difference.	Our school consistently seeks after teaching the children to respect themselves and each other. In Geography, we study our local community and communities further afield. Through the study of people, wherever they live, the children can develop an understanding of what community can look like and the need to make positive choice about the community they live in and the world they'd like to live in.	To be able to communicate effectively is an essential for their school life and a skill for life. Geography offers countless opportunities to develop their ability to communicate effectively and in a variety of ways and situations. .
